Entry/exit area of SY8 Studios and its proximity to the hospital's main clinical area

The photo here illustrates how cramped the site is. SY8 Studios and the clinical building are adjacent, 10 feet apart at the narrowest point. Without major reconfiguration of the area, traffic and pedestrians entering & exiting any part of SY8 Studios space necessarily pass very close to clinical space, particularly the end-of-life care area. The windows in clinical areas are often open. If perhaps 20 to 50 people are leaving after a period of social drinking, it is not improbable that they will sometimes make enough noise to cause significant disturbance.
